From The New-Orleans Pieuryane, dag fi We have received files of the Seglo XIX., El Heraldo, El Orden, and El Omanhas from the City of Mexico to the coth uit, being two days later advices than those pre-viously received.

Public affairs continued in the same stagnant state in the capital that we octiced on the arrival of the last sleasner.

The recolution in Michocan seems to be gaining ground.

The Omashus has the following secount of a battle:

The quadron of Querétaro has had another fight with the insurgents of Michocan. Had the squadron of Queretaro obtained any advantage over the insurgents, it is probable the Omashus would not have omitted to mention it.

The Universal says that the town of Litneusro, in Mi-mention is.

The Unserval says that the town of Litaenaro, in Michosean, and been taken by the insurgents, but that Gen. Zenea nameked them and drove them out. It naively acknowledges that the rebels captured "the garrison, all the arms, munitions of war, and everything else."

It is said that the clouds of locusts are still committing great ravages in the Departments of Oajaca, Vera Cruz, Puebla and Mexico.

The stage coach company had given notice that the roads between Jalapa and Vera Cruz were in such bad order, in consequence of frequent heavy rains, that they could not agree to make time with their coaches, and might even be forced to stop their ranning occasionally.

Santa Anna had ordered a census of the City of Mexico to be taken, specifying those who were engaged in commerce and industrial operations from others.

The opera company were giving "La Muta de Portici," and have announced as being in preparation "Roberto Devereux," "Hernani," and "Los Puritanos," with Salvi, Marini, and Beneventano.

DEATH OF LIEUT. MAXWELL-HIS LAST FIGHT WITH THE INDIANS.

From The Southern (Ga) Banner, Aug. 10.

The melancoly tidings of the death of this gallant young officer reached this place a few days since. He has many warm friends in this place, where he was well known and esteemed for his noble qualities and brave and generous bearing. We are sure the bereaved family of the decorated have the sympathies of the whole community. The following letter, written by one who know him in boyhood, and a brother officer, gives the particulars his tragic and untimely end:

the deceared have the sympathes of the whole conmanity. The following letter, written by one whe knew him in boyhood, and a brother officer, gives the particulars his tragic and untimely end:

Forat Union, (New Mexico.) July 2, 1854.

Dean Sire: For the last few months a severe and deadly war has been waged between the troops in this Territory and a warlike though diminished tribe of Indians, called the Tarcarella Apaches. In one battle we lost two killed and four wounded: In another, twenty-two killed and twenty-one wounded. But, however severe those battles were. (St. Belles and Danson's,) no officers had fallen.
And I now speek of the last fight, which has just occurred, ton the 36th uitlino,) and in which our little army has lost a young and promising officer—raised and educated in our town—numely: J. E. Maxwell, sen of Mrs. Maxwell of Athens, Ga.

Lieut. Maxwell graduated from the Military Academy in 1850, and has served honorably and faithfully as a brevet and second lieutenant in the third regiment of infantry, ever since in this country. In the fight which Lieut. Be I of the second dragoons had with the Apaches, Lieut. Maxwell, although it was the first time he had been under fire, conducted himself most gallantly, as a man and a Georgian. In another skirmish with the same Indians, being adjutant of the commanding officer, he ran the gannlet with the coolness of a veteran; yet he was to the inst degree unassuming; and I, who was a brother officer, stationed at the same post, never but once heard him speak of his deeds; and I firmly believe he was partially unsconscious that he had acted so nobly and gallandy.
Mid by nature, yet those who have seen him in conflict aver he was wholly changed, and cast all thought of death behind him. Yet death, without a moment's warning, has at length overtaken him.

On the morning of the 29th ult., Brevet Captain Sykes and Lieutenant Maxwell, with about sixty dragoons, (there being no dragoon officers on duty at the post,) started in pursuit of the party of Apache retreat of a band of about twen y Indians, who were attempting to gain difficult and almost impregnable passes of the mountains. Lieutenant Maxwell being well mounted, charged at the head of his men, to cut off the enemy cre they could pass a certain point above him. Unfortunately—possibly from being better mounted—nimself and one sergeant and two men arrived at the summit of the mesa some few moments era the rest of his troops had closed up. As soon as Lieutenant Maxwell, (who was ahead,) with the three men, arrived at the above-mentered where the Indians showed themselves above and mesa some low moments ere the rest of his troops had closed up. As soon as Lieutenant Maxwell, (who was shead,) with the three men, arrived at the above-montioned place, the Indians showed themselves above, and commenced a deadly discharge of arrows.

Lieut. Maxwell, with revolver in hand, emptied it with deadly effect; but ere he had done so, he had received an strow through his body—completely through. He drew is sabre, and in doing so his bridle arm received another mow, which passed through, and glances against his left freast. He still used his sabre, and when he received his last shot he was in the act of sabring an Indian; but in hat act, while his head was bowed to his horse's mane, he fill—an arrow in his brain—and fell like a knight of old, in his harness—his sword grasped in his hand, a smile upon is face. The Indians fled. Then came the troops thanking up the hill—but too late, alas' for poor young laxwell had fallen! And as Capt. Sylies saw him, with opturned face, lying stark dead, whom but a moment made he viewed in the prime and bloom of manhood, he is swed his head and wept, as none but a warrior can.

Lieutenant Maxwell was buried at his post, with military honors; and around his lonely grave were heard sea and were seen tears adown weather-beaten visages, there tears were strangers. I, who had known him from oy hood, followed him to his long home; and although lars were to me a stranger, still, when I heard the solier's requiem and the fusihade over his grave, they did urst forth, uncontrolled; and even now, while I pen this ad memorial of his fale, they come unbidden.

He died without an enemy. He died as a soldier's due, eace to him, my friend and brother soldier. May it be ny lot thus to die a glorious death. W. C. A., crespondence of The N. Y. Tribune.

ALPHA DELTA PHI CONVENTION.

Hamilton College, Saturday, Aug. 12, 1854. Among the attractive exercises connected with the late Commencement of Hamilton College, none were of a more interesting character than the public performances of the above Society.

The attendance was unusually large, delegates being present from all the principal colleges in the country.

The Fraternty is now in its twenty-third year, and having nearly that number of chapters, was never more having nearly that number of chapters, was never more prosperous than at the present time.

Members from abroad met with a cordial welcome from the Hamilton Chapter, who had made ample arrangements for their reception and entertainment.

On Tuesday, at 2 P.M., the various delegations met at the Brick Church, where the business meeting was held, as the different delegations appeared they were received with great enthusiasm, especially those from a distance, shoes well-falled ranks testified to their devotion to Alpha bella Phi.

The Hon. A. P. Willard, Lieut.-Governor of Indiana, was unanimously elected to preside over the deliberations.

The Hon. A. P. Willard, Lieut. Governor of Indiana, vas unanimously elected to preside over the deliberations. After the adjournment of the business ession, the members of the society opened a procession, led by the Utica Brass Band, and proceeded to the First Congregational Thurch, where the literary exercises took place. The burch was already well-filled by those who had been attracted thither by the fame of the orator and poet, and the ligh reputation which Alpha Delta Phi holds at old Hamlton.

Iton.

The exercises began with a prayer by the Rev. Mr. ELLS. The oration, by the Hon. G. W. Scoffeld of Pennsylvania, was listened to with deep interest. The opic was, "The Kights of Labor," and the aim of the sidress was to show the connection of labor with legislaton. He argued the radical view in an able and logical sanner.

The Hon. Caleb Lyon of Lyonsdale, the poet of the casion, was prevented by illness from appearing. His lace was supplied by Alfred B. Street, E.g., an old member of the Society, and one who has contributed no little to her fame. His subject was, "The Sources of Poetrs in America." The poem, containing an Irian legend and scenes from the battle of Lake Eric, was tyroduction well worthy of his reputation. The recital of the soul-stirring song of "Perry, the Bold," was fremently interrupted with enthusantic applause.

On Wednesday evening a levee was given by President forth in honor of the Society which the Convention atended in a body.

The Convention closed with a capital supper given by a Hamilton Chapter at Bagga's Hotel, Utica. We noticed mong the numbers present many who adorn the various rofessions and many well-known merchants, all of course it that class who are sometimes satirized for becoming small by degrees."

After the magnificent repast had been duly honored, bof. Willand arose and delivered an eloquent and sinted speech. His happy allusion to the receat election of a member of the Fraternity to the U. S. Senate was revived with moch cheering.

Prof. Dwicht and others being called upon made seeches well suited to the occasion.

A Man Whitper for Helping a Neoro to Escape.

On Friday last we heard that on Wednesday evening a man had been very severely lynched in Wellington. We immediately went to that place to inquire into the particulars. The facts of the case are substantially as follows: Col. John M. Lewis and Mr. Fackler. of Saline County, had each a runaway negro. They followed the fugitives into Jackson County, where they were captared. Col. Lewis had his slave handcuffed, and the other was at liberty. At Wellington the owners of the slaves stopped for dinner; while the negroes framed an excuse for going to the stable. In the stable a white man by the name of Wm. T. Dowal, induced Lewis's slave to go into the stable loft, where he was covered up by the white man un-Win. T. Dowal, induced Lewis's slave to go into the sta-ble loft, where he was covered up by the white man un-der a large pile of sheave oats. It was soon discovered by the statement of Fackler's negro, and one belonging to Mr. Major, where the negro was concealed, and on a sec-ond search he was found. The man was immediately ar-rested under a warrant and taken before Mr. Justice Hook, who committed him to juil, and delivered him into the custody of the township constable. Upon this the citizens appointed twelve men summarily to decide upon the case. They sentenced him to receive tweaty-five stripes with a cowhide over the shirt, and immediately to stripes with a cowhide over the shirt, and immediately to leave the State. The stripes were duly indicted, and the fellow left town with an order to come to Lexington and take passage on the steamer J. H. Lacas, for Illinois, with a promise that the citizens of Wellington would pay his passage. The guilt of Dowal was apparent to all; yet independent of the evidence of the negroes, there was hardly enough positive evidence sgains; him to convict him in a court of justice. [Lexington (Mo.) STRUCK BY LIGHTNING AT SEA.

The schooner Emma Hotchkiss, arrived at this port yesterday from Philadelphia, was struck by lightning on the 13th inst., at 2 o'clock in the morning, during a thunder storm off Barnegat. The schooner is bound to New-Haven, with a cargo of coal.

Two fatal cases of cholera were reported yesterday. A

Mrs. Malone ate a green apple on Saturday, and was immediately seized with vomiting and cramps. She died on Sunday of cholers, and was buried yesterday. A man living in the same neighborhood was attacked with cholera on Sunday evening and died yesterday afternoon. These cases were in South Fifth-st., near Monmouth-st.

AT OTHER PLACES.

died on Saturday and Sunday.

At TROY, N. Y., for the 48 hours ending at noon yes day there were 13 cases and 2 deaths. From Aug. 1 to 11th inclusive, 62 cases and 36 deaths reported. At TRENTON, N. J., no fatal cases of cholera had occurred to Saturday morning. That day, however, one death occurred. Dysentery is rather prevalent. At MORRISVILLE, N. J., two fatal cases, a man and his child, had occurred. At THREE RIVERS, C. E., The Laquirer learns that five

At WARRESHA, Wis, several deaths have occurred, entirely among the emigrants. At GRATIOT GROVE, Wis., its ravages are said to have been very extensive. One man lost his wife, child, servant girl and man in one day. At WARREN, Ill., the disease has been very violent, and many deaths have occurred. At ELIZABETH, ILL., there is scarcely a house in the vicinity in which there are not some persons sick. On the road from WARREN to GALENA and DESERVE rapid decrease. On Wednesday and Thursday there were only 10 deaths per day from all causes.

At Marion, Ohio, from Friday to Monday there were 14 deaths. Henry Haldeman, editor of The Buckeye

Eagle, has fallen a victim.

At PERRYSBURGH, Ohio, the disease has been violent and fatal, almost every person attacked having died. About 50 deaths have occured, among them Dr. Robinson and the Hon. E. Huntington, prominent citizens.

At Hamilton, C. W., 13 deaths from cholers were

At PHILADELPHIA, the whole number of deaths last week was 111 less than the week before. There were 65 from cholera, and 52 from cholera morbus. At LOUISVILLE, Ky., there have been a few fatal cases,

THE LAKE SUPERIOR CANAL .-- A correspondent at the Saut Ste. Mary favors us with the following account of the state of the work on the canal, which will render Lake Superior accessible to ships from below:

"The canal is slowly progressing, but its execution and management provoke much censure. The stones which are used to face its sides are soft and crumbling, and certainly unfit to use. But whether good, bad or indifferent, it is very uncertain when the canal will be finished. It is contemplated to take a boat across the Portage this month for the carrying of supplies on Lake Superior this fall: the Baltimore having been pronounced unseaworthy on her last trip down, and drawn off. In blasting on th canal, a few days ago, one of the workmen was severely though not dangerously wounded."

INFAMOUS TREATMENT OF IMMIGRANTS.

It is said to have long been the practice of ship captains on arriving at this port with German immigrants, to enter into an arrangement with some one or more of the swarms of runners that infest the docks on every new arrival, whereby the poor friendless strangers are fleeced out of con siderable sums of money by the runners and the landlords who employ them. Some of the captains by this arrangement make $500 or more out of a single cargo of the Germans, and this is the inducement for the arrangement. A case in point came before the authorities yesterday. It appears that the ship Star, of Thomaston, Me., arrived on Sunday with a load of German immigrants, and the captain instead of sending them ashore immediately, kept them on board to suit some purpose of his own. The water which had been used by these immigrants for the past two weeks was stale and very unwholesome, and one of them requested permission of the mate to go ashore yesterday to get some fresh water for himself and family. This favor was denied him, and he was beat and kicked about by the mate until, to save himself, he had to jump overboard. George Yeoman, a boatman, saved him from a watery grave and went with him to the office of the Mayor, where a complaint was made and a warrant issued for the arrest of the mate. It will be seen by the above that the vessel ar rived on Sunday, and yet the passengers were not allowed to go ashore yesterday.

Six: The Jobbing Merchants of this City are under obligations to you for your article of the 11th, on the subject of "Cholera in New-York," For several years past it has been a regular practice of the Philadelphia papers to circulate false reports in regard to the health and other matters affecting the business of New-York. These reports have been been necessarily New-York. These reports have heretafore been permitted to go uncontradicted by the press here. We are glad to find you taking up the subject, and hope you will pursue it until fall justice is done.

With other houses in the City, we have long felt that the City press has almost entirely overlooked our interests by paying too little attention to such matters as materially affect our business. One great evil that we have to contend with is the want of prompt and efficient arrangements for the delivery of goods to the West.
